

Catholic congregation. This was followed by Father Clinton Memorial Parish Hall (1925), replacing an earlier hall, and the Clergy House on Cordova (1927), by Sharp & Thompson Architects. As early as 1904 Father Clinton expressed hope for a long-lasting church, stating “wooden buildings are not permanent.” Under later leadership of Father Wilberforce Cooper, English architect Adrian Gilbert Scott met the challenge of setting a new church between the Parish Hall and the Clergy House. Completed in 1936, its 14th century Gothic style was expressed in modern materials as one the first buildings in Vancouver to feature cast exposed concrete.

St. James' Anglican Church located on the northeast corner of Gore Avenue and Cordova Street was completed in 1936.
